

Levi Ellis

Project Statement

Until now, adaptive audio in video games has primarily been implemented via 3rd party software such as Wwise or Fmod. My thesis project uses a custom adaptive audio system to allow for efficient audio implementation and complete developer control. My thesis utilizes a game space to demonstrate the viability of a custom adaptive audio system built purely in vanilla Blueprint while encapsulating a culmination of the skills I have developed throughout my studies.